TERRIBLE TOLL IN JAPAN TYPHOON

MANY HUNDREDS DEAD
IN RAGING SEA

FISHING BOATS THROWN
FAR INLAND ON COMBERS

BRITONS' ADVENTURE

Tokyo, Sept. 22.

The typhoon which raged over Japan yesterday has taken almost 1,000 lives, according to official reports, and the casualties may grow greater.

A list covering eighteen prefectures affected by the typhoon was issued by the Home Ministry to-day and shows that up to 11 o'clock last night the total of the killed was 943, injured 3,738 and missing 503.

Osaka has suffered most terribly. There 767 lives are known to have been lost, 3,058 are injured, many of them seriously, and 488 are missing. Of these, it is feared, a number are dead.

In Kyoto, 104 are dead, and 306 are injured.

Tokyo was less seriously affected, though four were killed there and 33 injured gravely.

At Kobe, where the storm was most severe, the terrific wind lifted the sea into a gigantic and terrifying frenzy. Huge waves hurled fishing craft a quarter of a mile inland.

The British Colony in Shioya suffered severely. Some houses were literally lifted from their foundations. Roofs were stripped off, trees, hedges and boardings were flattened down or sent whirling on crazy courses of destruction.

TRAPPED IN BUNGLOWS.

Bungalow-dwellers on Shioya beach were compelled to flee before breakfast to escape the rapidly rising sea. Huge combers pounded the bungalows to match-wood.

Some British residents, living on the beach at Uchide, were trapped in their dwellings and were forced to leap into the furious tide from their bedroom windows and swim ashore. They were severely battered, but not seriously hurt.

WALLS OF WATER.

The waves were literally walls of water. Towering and cresting, they raced inland, destroying thousands of houses.

The flimsy dwellings of the poorer people could not resist the sea for a moment. They melted under the scourge and their inmates, if they could not swim to safety, were doomed. Where the coast-line is low the loss of life was appalling.—Reuter.

London, Sept. 21.

London is already thrilling with the plans for the wedding of Prince George and Princess Marina in Westminster Abbey on November 29. The date of the wedding was officially announced to-day.

The ceremonies will be the most colourful seen in Britain for years.

The Abbey service will be followed, in all probability, by a short ceremony in accordance with the rights of the Greek Orthodox Church, which will be held in Buckingham Palace.

The date of the wedding was chosen after long discussion. It is understood that in view of the Duke of Gloucester's absence in Australia, the question of postponing the wedding until his return in the Spring was considered. But both Prince George and Princess Marina dislike the idea of a long engagement.

The fact that H.M. the King's Silver Jubilee will be celebrated in May is another factor in their decision.

All the details of the wedding have not yet been settled but it is practically certain that the Archbishop of Canterbury and York will be present, and it is expected that Princess Elizabeth will be a bridesmaid.

Their Majesties, of course, will drive in full state to the

OATH NOT CONSIDERED NECESSARY

The Government's intention to amend the Evidence Ordinance, 1889, is announced in the Gazette. The amending Ordinance inserts in the principal Ordinance a section based upon Section 30 of the Children Act, 1908 providing for the reception in criminal proceedings of the unsworn evidence of children of tender years who in the opinion of the Court understand the duty of speaking the truth, but not the obligation imposed by an oath.

Section 7 (3) of the Protection of Women and Girls Ordinance, which makes a like provision in cases under sections 6 and 7 of that Ordinance, is repealed.

CHINA'S THREAT TO LEAGUE

MAY BLOCK PASSAGE OF BUDGET UNLESS CONTRIBUTION CUT

VETO CAN PARALYSE GENEVA ACTIVITIES

Geneva, Sept. 21.

The League of Nations is facing a new crisis, brought about through China's threat that unless her contribution to Geneva is cut exactly in half, she may veto the budget vote.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, noted diplomat and chief delegate from China to the League of Nations Assembly, made this announcement of Chinese attitude to-day when addressing the Fourth Committee of the League.

Unless satisfaction were obtained, said Mr. Quo, and the League granted China's demand for a reduction of her assessment, China might oppose the passage of the League's budget.

An unanimity is required to pass the budget, China's threat is by no means an empty one. By placing and Russia the same as Britain's veto against the budget, China would stop with one move the whole machinery of Geneva.

There is much sympathy with the Chinese attitude, however. Great Britain has now proposed revision of assessments, whereby all the four permanent members of units to the League, which Britain already pays. This would make the contributions of France, Italy and Russia the same as Britain's and would enable the League to allow a five per cent. reduction in the cost of membership to other countries.

The Italian delegate, however, declared it was utterly impossible for Italy ever to consider increasing

Washington, Sept. 21.

Richard Hauptmann, 35-year-old German, held in connection with the kidnapping and murder of the Lindbergh baby in March, 1932, was arraigned in the Bronx Court to-day and held without bail for hearing on Monday. He is charged with receiving the $50,000 ransom money paid by Colonel Charles Lindbergh for the safe return of his child.

He was photographed and finger-printed and there was no break in the all-night grilling to which he was subjected by police questioners.

Throughout his examination, Hauptmann insisted that a friend gave him the ransom money and had since returned to Germany and died. Hauptmann said he did not know the money was the Lindbergh ransom.

EXTRADITION SOUGHT.

Though the charge on which Hauptmann is arraigned in New York is not serious, there are graver proceedings ahead. The Governor of the State has issued a warrant for Hauptmann's extradition to New Jersey where he will be charged with the murder of the Lindbergh baby.

Washington's Labour Department records reveal that Hauptmann's real name is Karl Pollner and that he was formerly a mechanic of Saxony.

He has admitted that he served four years in prison for larceny and that he was paroled for good behaviour.

The Immigration Department records show he was deported but he later re-entered the United States in some inexplicable manner.

SLY, CLEVER CRIMINAL.

The authorities in Kamen, Germany, with whom Washington has communicated, say Hauptmann escaped from prison in Germany in 1923, when he was serving a sentence for robbery. They describe him as a sly and clever criminal.—United Press.

Washington, Sept. 21.
Evidence of the enormous increases of purchases by Japan of materials which could be put to use in warfare, was given by Chief Statistician Tupper of the Foreign Trade Statistical Department of the Chamber of Commerce before the Senate Committee of Investigation of arms manufacture and export to-day.

He declared that Japan bought three bales of cotton linters in 1929 and 10,000 in 1933, while her scrap iron and steel purchases were 48,036 tons in 1931 and over half a million tons for the first four months of 1934.

There had also been large increases in America's exports of cotton linters, cottonseed fibre, aeroplane engines and sodium nitrate to Germany, he said.—Reuter Special.

TEXTILE WALK-OUT UNABATED

CAROLINA READY FOR TROUBLE

PHILADELPHIA RIOTING

Washington, Sept. 21.

Although the textile strike situation is very little changed, a fear of further labour troubles was felt to-day when a general strike throughout the nation was threatened by a high official of the Textile Workers' Association.

While the chiefs of the unions affected are gathered in Washington to consider the peace proposals, and President Roosevelt's request that the walk-out should immediately cease and the workers go back to their shops has been broadcasted to every section in the grip of the tie-up, the textile strike continues unabated.

Strike leaders claim there has been no weakening of the strike since yesterday, and that additional mills have actually closed.

DANGEROUS SITUATION.

Threats that a general strike would be called if the textile strike were not successful, were made by Mr. Fuller, Director of Education of the United Textile Workers' Association, when he was addressing strikers at Macon, Georgia, one of the seats of the trouble.

Both strikers and mill-owners are prepared for a simultaneous offensive on Monday throughout North and South Carolina and the position remains tense.

MANY ARRESTED.

Police scattered 500 pickets who were attempting to prevent mill operations in Clifton Heights, Philadelphia, and arrested twenty of them in the ensuing scuffle.

In Huntington, Philadelphia, another crowd stormed and seized a fire station, for no apparent reason. Comrades in still another section of the city attacked a mill, without doing any great amount of damage. The situation in the north-east generally remains comparatively tranquil, but in New England there is a feeling of apprehensiveness.—Reuter.

Make-Up Insurance

One of the most important things to remember about make-up is that it should not only be planned correctly but insured against catastrophe.

The best insurance for perfect make-up, the kind that puts glamour to work on a twenty-four hour schedule—is to use the right make-up foundation.

Foundation hides "off colour" spots in the skin, blemishes, freckles, and circles under the eyes while it gives subtle tones to serve as your make-up background—truly, it may be used to cover a multitude of sins!

Upon the foundation depends not only the protection of your skin but the perfection of your make-up. Apply the foundation in tiny dots to forehead, cheeks and chin, blending away from the face and down below the neck line, using a one way stroke.

You will find it a magic wand in your beauty make-up.

"In Hollywood, we have a magic make-up secret," says Claudette Colbert. "We learned that secret from Max Factor, Hollywood's genius of make-up, who has taught us how to bring out the alluring beauty and subtle charm by having our make-up in harmony with the delicate colorings of our complexions. For the stars of the screen, and for you, he has created a powder, rouge, and lipstick in perfect harmony with any type of beauty—blonde, brunette, brownette, or red-head."

"MEN IN WHITE CAUSED MAKE-UP PROBLEM"

What made the player's faces look so dark?

That was the problem that bothered Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials when they saw the first rushes of "Men in White," their current release starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy.

No matter how much light was used during the filming of the picture, the player's faces, when photographed, assumed a dark almost negroid appearance.

In exasperation, the studio called Max Factor, Hollywood's make-up authority.

When Mr. Factor arrived, he found that the white-walled surroundings in the picture and the white uniforms worn by the players created an optical illusion by making their faces "seem" dark in comparison.

Max Factor's suggestion to use a lighter make-up turned the trick.

And to-day, Max Factor offers this discovery to you in Powder Foundation. Colour harmony in powders, in rouges and other essentials of make-up which when used by you will impart a natural beauty, an alluring charm beyond comparison. No longer need you select your powders, rouges and lipsticks in haphazard fashion. No longer need you chance that grotesque, painted effect or "off colour" make-up. Now you may be positively certain of a naturalness in beauty comparable to that of screen stars who are adored by millions.

UNIFORMITY IN UNIFORMS

CITY OF LONDON POLICE CHANGES

PROTEST FROM MANY SOURCES

Some concern is being expressed in the City of London at the suggestion that the City Police may lose their distinctive dress because of the recommendations of the Committee on Police Clothing. This committee was appointed as the result of discussion at the meeting of the Central Conference of Chief Constables held in December, 1932, and the report of its deliberations, which is addressed to the Home Secretary, was summarized in The Times of July 20.

It is always difficult for the City of London to believe that its own peculiar rights, privileges, and customs can be assailed, but in this case Sir Hugh Turnbull, the Commissioner of the City Police, sat on the committee, and the report is unanimous it is reluctantly being assumed that the City Police may be involved in the recommended uniformity of dress, although a clause of the report approves certain limited exceptions to the idea of complete uniformity.

If the recommendations of the report are adopted in the City, the police will lose their distinctive headgear, their brass buttons and gold (or yellow) lace, and their armband of red and white, which are the City's colours.

The report recommends a helmet of the pattern worn by the Metropolitan Police with a star-shaped helmet plate surmounted by the Crown, and wearing a small chromium-plated central device of the Royal Cypher. It is true "the local coat of arms or crest" may be worn instead of the cypher, but it would be so small as to be unrecognizable, and would presumably be of chromium-plated metal.

The pattern of patrol jacket recommended is good, but chromium-plated buttons are to be worn, and this detail applies also to tunics. The sergeant's stripes are to be of silver lace. The pattern of greatcoat recommended is an improvement in detail on that at present worn by the City force, but sergeants are to wear black braid stripes on white cloth in place of the yellow braid that now distinguishes them.

THE STRIPED ARMLET.

"It was stated by an authority: 'It is not easy to visualize our City inspectors attired like Army Staff officers and wearing Sam Browne belts. It is true they would appear like any other police-inspector in the kingdom, but that is not exactly what is desired.' The report recommends that armlets be scrapped, and consequently we lose our City colours. It is not a good recommendation, for it takes away a time-honoured symbol of British law and order. The striped armlet is known throughout the world as the emblem of the British 'Bobby.' It is worn by the police all over the Empire, and it would be a great mistake to abolish it.

"There are in the report suggestions that the Home Secretary may approve special exceptions to the general rules, but as these are tucked away at the end of the paragraphs relating to helmets and armlets they do not go very far; they do not even refer to helmet-plates. The gist of the report is to secure uniformity so that police of one city, borough, or county going to the help of another force in time of disturbance may not be singled out for attack or retribution. The argument cuts both ways, for it is just as likely that the presence of policemen from a great city or a well-known force would have a deterrent effect and save disorder."

FASHION NOTES

SQUARE gold and platinum finger rings are shown in many smart Paris jewellers' windows. Some are engraved with monograms, or even mounted with stones, but all retain their four sharp corners and are generally about half an inch wide.

There are bracelets to match as well which look like sections cut from square tin boxes. All jewellery tends to be rather angular at the moment. Stones are cut square, triangular, or perhaps in hexagon, or again, they may have a sharp ridge down their centres. But few are smoothly rounded, as in the past.

KING-EMPEROR'S DELHI STATUE

GIFT OF INDIAN PRINCES

It is hoped that the statue of the King-Emperor which is to be erected in New Delhi, at the junction of King's Way and the Harding Avenue, facing the New City, will be unveiled during the cold weather of 1935-36. The total height of the pedestal and statue will be 63ft. 3in. from the ground level; the actual height of the figure of the King being 18ft. 9in. The King will be shown as standing in his Coronation robes, as worn at the Delhi Durbar on December 12, 1911.

The plinth of the pedestal will be in red stone and the remainder in white stone, in harmony with the All-India War Memorial, some 450ft. away, and through the arch of which this imposing statue will be seen.

The statue is to be erected to mark the loyalty and attachment of the Ruling Princes and Chiefs of India to the person and Throne of the King-Emperor. The scheme was originated by the Maharajah of Kapurthala and will be carried out with contributions from the Ruling Princes. Mr. C. S. Jagger, A.R.A., is the sculptor. He is now working on the necessary half and full size models, which will be sent out to New Delhi, where the actual carving in stone will be done by Indian craftsmen. The pedestal and surround have been designed by Sir Edwin Lutyens in collaboration with the sculptor.

NEW ISSUE OF STAMPS

PHOTOGRAVURE PROCESS

RICHER COLOURING

Sir Kingsley Wood, the Postmaster General, has made an important announcement on the new issue of British postage stamps.

In an official statement, issued at the General Post Office, London, he pointed out that for the first time in Post Office history postage stamps are to be printed by the photogravure process. "In the forthcoming issue of stamps, up to one shilling in value," he said, "the photogravure method of production has been adopted by Harrison & Sons (Ltd.) from cylinders bearing etched reproductions of photographic originals. The process permits of light and shade being introduced, and produces, I think it will be agreed, a more artistic effect than surface printing."

"In all the new stamps there is a solid background displaying His Majesty's head in relief and the colours are decidedly richer than those of the present issue. There are only minor changes in design. In the 1d. and 2½d. stamps the smaller head—as hitherto used in the other denominations—is introduced, and the design of the frame is modified.

"Postage stamps of 2s. 6d., 5s., and 10s. denominations are being produced as hitherto by the recess printing process, and are being supplied by Waterlow & Sons (Ltd.) While there will be no alteration in the general design, some of the engraved lines have been modified, and some cross hatching has been introduced.

"These alterations are designed to strengthen and enrich the colours and impart a better appearance to the stamps. Stamps of this new issue will be on sale in October.

"Criticism is occasionally made that our stamps remain unaltered, but it is certainly a valued tradition of Great Britain that our stamps should always bear the effigy of the ruling Sovereign.

"People sometimes ask for larger stamps, but there is a practical and substantial difficulty in increasing the size. Any variation would necessitate a complete alteration of stamp machines up and down the country. In London alone there are approximately 2,000 of these machines.

"BEST IN THE WORLD."

"Great Britain was the first country to issue an adhesive postage stamp, and I think it can be fairly claimed that our stamps are among the best printed in the world. Philatelists at any rate agree that it is no function of the Post Office to make revenue out of stamp collectors by creating unnecessary issues.

"The Post Office sells about 20,000,000 stamps every day, and last year over 6,883,674,000 stamps were purchased by the public, an increase of about 108,000,000 over the number sold during the previous twelve months."

Sir Kingsley pointed out that up to the present three processes had been used for producing adhesive postage stamps in this country: (1) recess printing (i.e., printing from plates produced from line engraved dies); (2) embossing; and (3) surface printing.

The Deputy Director-General of the Post Office, Mr. T. R. Gardiner, explained at a Press inspection of the new issue that it had taken between six and nine months to make a final decision on the many points regarding the new issue. The new method will be slightly more expensive than the old, but is regarded as superior.

The daring attempt of Capt. Maurice Wilson to climb Mount Everest alone failed dramatically when, according to his porters, he perished on the gale-swept glaciers but 6,000 feet short of his goal. A former British Army captain, disguised as a Tibetan to elude authorities, he made the forbidden ascent after weeks of training in an attempt to plant the Union Jack at the peak.

CHINESE SHIP LAUNCHED

PIRATES AND DEVILS WARNED AWAY.

Chinese crackers were exploded to "ward off evil spirits" when the launch took place of the Hai Heng, built at the Clydeholm, Glasgow, yard of Messrs. Barclay, Curle, Co. for the China Merchants Steam Navigation Company. The naming ceremony was performed by Madame Quo Tai-chi, wife of the Chinese Minister. The crackers were ignited as the vessel slid down the ways into the River Clyde.

An interesting feature of the vessel is the elaborate precautions which have been taken against possible attack in the pirate zone, which forms part of the ship's usual run. The various classes of passengers have been completely segregated one from the other, and a very complete system of steel grilles has been erected throughout, subdividing the ship and completely isolating the vulnerable control points. As a further measure against attack, steam connections with hoses are arranged in a number of key positions.

SHORTS FOR WOMEN GOLFERS?

Keen U.S. Controversy on Attire

"The Prince of Wales wears shorts, so why shouldn't we?" This was the comment of Miss Beatrice Gottlieb, the American golfer, on the edict of the New York Women's Metropolitan Golf Association against shorts as tournament attire for women. The question of shorts or no shorts in American sport has produced considerable controversy. While some declared that they are vulgar, and point to the necessity of safeguarding of delicate skins from poisonous vegetation, others say that since shorts are permitted to men the same liberty should be allowed to the women, as feminine legs are more attractive to look at than their masculine counterpart.

Miss Gottlieb, who was one of the pioneers of this new fashion, was quite frank in her opinion. "I am all for shorts," she said; "they are the only sensible thing. Most of us appear in bathing suits before the public."

Miss Maureen Orcutt, one of America's leading players, said she would have to obey the ruling, but, she added, "It is going to be hard on those who have secured a beautiful leg tan."

Miss Helen Hicks, the former American champion, who recently turned professional, is one of the few women golfers definitely opposed to the wearing of shorts. "They are all right for children," she said, "but I don't like them for women. There isn't any costume quite so pretty for a woman on the golf course as a sweater and skirt."

Mrs. Opal S. Hill, one of the players selected to represent America in the Curtis Cup against England, and four times winner of the women's Trans-Mississippi tournament, supports Miss Hicks. "Shorts are not becoming to women," she said; "only a few wear them well."

Canada does not intend to put any ban on girls wearing shorts, at any rate while on the golf links. The question has been discussed by many golf committees, and although no ruling has yet been made, women are allowed to wear whatever they like. Indeed, an official blessing has been bestowed on shorts on the municipal golf course in Montreal.

Alderman Weldon, chairman of the Executive, which decides these matters, says: "Shorts are decent, hygienic, and healthful; and I cannot see why anyone should raise any objection to them. One sees them throughout the city, used by women in their own homes, for the garden, and on the tennis courts."

PLANES HUNT BANDITS

BRITISH POLICE EXPERIMENT

DIRECTED BY WIRELESS

British Car bandits may soon have to reckon with wireless-equipped aeroplanes. A demonstration in which a car supposed to carry fugitive bank robbers was spotted by an airplane, and with the aid of Marconi wireless equipment was run to earth inside twenty-five minutes, has just been held at Desford airdrome.

For the purpose of the demonstration Desford airdrome was regarded as police headquarters. Here a party of observers were able to hear on loud speakers the message exchanged between the plane and a patrolling police car, also fitted with wireless.

A mimic robbery was staged. At 2 p.m. word came that two men had robbed a bank and had been seen to escape northwards in a car distinguished by a white roof. The airplane immediately took off, and at 2:30 came the news that the car had been identified from the air.

"Police patrol Lutterworth Road," came the instructions from the airplane, and after various other directions came the words: "Pull up at Bruntingthorpe Corner." Soon after the hunt was over, the unsuspecting "bandit" car having run into the arms of the police.

The car installation comprised a Marconi short-wave police transmitter and receiver fitted under the dashboard, and operated without difficulty either by the driver or his companion. The loud speaker is fitted on the back of one of the front seats, and in actual practice can be clearly heard by the driver and all his passengers while the car is in motion. A short metal rod forms the aerial.

The plane was fitted with a short wave transmitting and receiving apparatus of a type used for military purposes. Both telegraphy and telephony are employed in a wave length of approximately 145 metres.

Freedom from dread—joy in the

are receiving scientific protection.

It's true enough that serious troubles threaten neglected teeth and gums. Make certain of their safety and free yourself from fear! Guard the Danger Line with Squibb's Dental Cream. In the tiny crevices along this line, where tooth and gums meet, food particles hide, ferment and form GERM ACID which brings on tooth decay and gum irritation. But Squibb's Dental Cream, being ANTACID, counteracts Gorm Acid. It also cleans perfectly, has a pleasant taste, and it is very economical. Use Squibb's Dental Cream... and Smile UNAFRAID!

The War Department of the United States has awarded a contract to the WESTINGHOUSE COMPANY FOR 1467 refrigerators, in continuation of their policy of equipping their officers' quarters in various posts throughout the country with modern conveniences.

The order was given to WESTINGHOUSE ONLY after exhaustive tests had been made of their refrigerator in competition with SEVEN of their most prominent competitors.

This is indeed a glowing tribute to the superiority of WESTINGHOUSE REFRIGERATORS.

First cost was not the main consideration in the United States Army's decision to place their order for WESTINGHOUSE. Their principal concern was to obtain a refrigerator which would give them satisfaction for years to come—at a minimum operating and servicing cost.

CINEMA NEWS NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

Hollywood's newest imported picture star weighs 1400 pounds! She is Daisy, one of the very few rhinoceroses in captivity, brought to Hollywood from Germany for her film debut in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer adventure feature, "Tarzan and His Mate" which is showing to crowded houses at the Queen's Theatre. Daisy was captured by natives in South Africa when she was one year old. For the past three years she was the big attraction at Carl Hagenbeck's Tier Park, at Stellingen, Hamburg. For Johnny Weissmuller's new "Tarzan" picture, the script called for a real rhinoceros, the most vicious of all African animals. A canvass of the leading zoos and circuses was extended to Europe and led to Daisy in Hagenbeck's Tier Park. The mighty Daisy was crated and all but wrapped in cellophane for the long journey to M-G-M studios. En route, while in the care of John Schilld, one of Hagenbeck's animal attendants, Cedric Gibbons, noted art director, directed the feature in which Johnny Weissmuller and Maureen O'Sullivan are again seen in the romantic story of African adventure. Others in the cast are Neil Hamilton, Paul Cavanagh, Frederick Harvey, Doris Lloyd, William Stack, Desmond Roberts and Nathan Curry.

"Wonder Bar" Dolores Del Rio doesn't like to get dizzy. In the big swaltz number, "Don't Say Good Night" for "Wonder Bar" the First National picture, which opens to-day at the Alhambra Theatre, Dolores and Ricardo Cortez perform a dance number on the floor of the Parisian Cafe which is the setting for the picture. The dance began as a close-up. Then the camera, mounted on a huge crane, swung back and up until the two dancers were small figures on a high stage. Behind them many tall white pillars slid aside to disclose a chorus of two hundred girls performing an intricate routine. While all this happened, Cortez was swinging Miss Del Rio round and round. On the first "take" she slipped and nearly fell at the close of the number. "Get so dizzy, Buzz," she called to Berkeley. "Please! Those turns—they take so long. I don't know where I am." Dolores doesn't like to get dizzy. Berkeley could see justice in her argument. So in three subsequent takes of the same number, those turns were reduced by almost half. "Wonder Bar" is a gigantic musical drama with 300 girls in spectacular numbers. There is an all star cast which includes besides Miss Del Rio and Cortez, Kay Francis, Dick Powell, Hal LeRoy and Al Jolson. Lloyd Bacon directed the picture from the screen play by Earl Boddwile. Music and lyrics are by Harry Warren and Al Dubin.

Marx Brothers in "Duck Soup" Having exhausted the humorous possibilities in Florida real estate, Long Island society, gangland and college, the Four Marx Brothers have mythical republics for their gags and in "Duck Soup" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. "Duck Soup" is better than "The Cocoanuts", "Animal Crackers", "Monkey Business" and "Horsefeathers" combined. From the opening of the picture—a typical Marxian explosion—to the final baroque uproar of merriment. Gags happen so fast, and so furiously that it is impossible to "catch" all of them. You'll want to see it twice! It's sheer insanity and madness from start to finish, but the triumphs of Marx never made better picture. Miss Dumont, back with the Marxmen again after an absence of three years, was superb. So were Edwin Maxwell, Miss Torres, Edmund Breese, and Kennedy.

What exactly is a screen epic? The term has been used for such outstanding films as "The Birth of a Nation," "The Covered Wagon," "Chinatown" and "Silver Dollar." It means a picture which relates the history of a hero, a family or a group in sweeping narrative style, with accuracy of detail and vigour of situation, then all advance reports must lead us to expect a true screen epic. That is the time and place for the first showing here of the new Warner Bros. First National special production, "The World Changes" starring Paul Muni. According to advance reports, "The World Changes" covers a span of some seventy-five years in the history and development of America. Between its opening and its close, the crisis and the triumphs of national life figure as background for the saga of an American family. Paul Muni plays the role of the hardy pioneer who with his own hands builds up a vast fortune only to suffer the bitter disappointment of seeing his family turn their backs on everything that he stood for. That fine actress, Aline MacMahon, likewise appears opposite Paul Muni, first as a young pioneer mother, giving birth to Orin as his father's covered wagon jolts across the plains, and last as a woman past sixty, who leaves her Dakota home to attend the wedding of her great granddaughter. In addition to Muni and Miss MacMahon, there is an unusually large and talented cast, which includes Mary Astor, Donald Cook, Patricia Ellis, Margaret Lindsay, Jean Muir, Guy Kibbee and a score of others.

"It Happened One Night" One hundred young men, members of President Roosevelt's Civilian Conservation Corps, had as their luncheon guests two of the most popular stars in Hollywood when Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert visited their camp. The two co-stars in the Columbia production, "It Happened One Night", which is now at the King's Theatre. At the lunch, Claudette and Clark spent a busy half-hour autographing cards, notebook and envelope backs, answering questions about Hollywood, and shaking hands. Both players were amazed at the keen interest displayed by the young men in motion pictures and picture people, their knowledge of current and past productions, and their shrewd comments on pictures they had seen.

"She Learned About Sailors" Passing in triumph through the scenes of earlier struggles is a thrill that doesn't come to everyone. One of the fortunate few is Alice Faye, who has made the Hollywood hurdle in one effortless leap. Miss Faye doesn't expect motion pictures ever to give her the grand and glorious feeling she realized a few years ago when she toured an Eastern motion picture theatre circuit doing a solo vent number with Rudy Vallee's orchestra. Only six months before she has toured the same circuit as a Miss Nobody in the chorus of a prologue unit. Miss Faye is now playing the lead opposite Lew Ayres in "She Learned About Sailors", coming to the King's Theatre on Sunday.

Mildred Dawn, who will again be seen in dance specialties at the Hong-kong Hotel Grill Room to-night, together with her partner, Marty Sands.

K.C. RAILWAY AGREEMENT

Protection Against War Possibility

The new working agreement for through traffic between the Chinese and British Sections of the Kowloon-Canton Railway, was signed simultaneously in Chinese and English on September 16 by H.E. the Governor of Hongkong, Sir William Peel, and the Ministry of Railways of the National Government of China.

The new terms in the agreement, which comes into force on October 1, and is of five years duration, are published below.

The Rolling-stock for Through Passenger Trains run primarily for the conveyance of Terminal Through Traffic shall be in the ratio of eighteen Chinese Section coaches to seven British Section coaches.

The Rolling-stock for Through

Passenger Trains run primarily for the conveyance of Sectional Through Traffic shall be in such a ratio as may be mutually agreed upon by the two Administrations, the calculation of such ratio being based upon the amount of traffic between the various points involved. Such ratio shall vary between four Chinese Section coaches to one British Section coach and eighteen Chinese Section coaches to seven British Section coaches, and shall not be subject to revision until a period of at least six months has elapsed, in which event any alteration shall not be retrospective.

When any Section is unable to supply the Rolling-stock according to the ratios prescribed in Articles 18 and 19, the said Section may borrow such Rolling-stock from the other Section, upon the payment of coach hire as specified in a Schedule.

Through Goods Trains.

The Rolling-stock for Through Goods Trains, run primarily for the conveyance of Terminal Through Traffic, shall be supplied by the two Sections in the ratio of eighteen Chinese Section wagons to seven British Section wagons, one 30-ton wagon being taken as equivalent to two 15-ton wagons. Any departure from this ratio shall result in the payment to the Section supplying the excess wagon or wagons, of such charges for hire and demurrage by the other Section as are laid down in Schedule "B".

The Rolling-stock for Through Goods Trains run primarily for the conveyance of Sectional Through Traffic shall be supplied in accordance with the best traffic arrangements that can be made to deal with such traffic, all wagons used in conveying this traffic being subject to such charges for hire and demurrage as are laid down.

Through Mixed Trains.

The supply of coaches for Through Mixed Trains shall be in accordance with Through Passenger Trains.

Cleaning of Rolling-stock.

Arrangements shall be made by the two Administrations for the stabling and oiling of passenger coaches and goods wagons employed in Through Traffic and the estimated cost thereof shall be borne by each Section in the proportion of Chinese Section seventy-two per cent and British Section twenty-eight per cent, such cost being mutually agreed upon by the two Administrations.

Interchange of Rolling-stock.

Regulations for the delivery and receipt of Rolling-stock and the detailed procedure for inspection preparatory to such delivery and receipt shall be mutually agreed upon

The TIME TEST and

'ASPRO'

THE old idea that a dozen medicines were needed for a dozen complaints—that laying up for indefinite periods was necessary—that it was also necessary to take dangerous drugs and narcotics—was an illusion. 'ASPRO' has dispelled it. For it is the medicine that takes the place of a dozen medicines, because, after ingestion in the system, it is an internal antiseptic—an anti-pyretic or fever reducer—an anti-periodic—a powerful germicide, and a solvent of Uric Acid, and, therefore, banishes the causes of numerous complaints. That's why 'ASPRO' banishes headaches in five minutes. It's the time test for quick action, and it stands the test of time. 'ASPRO' soothes the irritable—brings sweet sleep to the sleepless—relieves rheumatism in one night—smashes colds and influenza at inception. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' does not harm the heart or the stomach. It can be taken by all, from child to parent, anywhere, any time. The price is within the reach of all.

'ASPRO' Hunts Out Neuralgia and Rheumatism

Dear Sir,
145 Nicholson Street, N.Y.
It gives me great pleasure to pen these lines of appreciation for the wonderful benefit I have derived through taking your 'ASPRO' Tablets. I have been for some time a martyr to NEURALGIA and RHEUMATISM, and have tried various remedies, but without any beneficial results. I was advised by a friend to try 'ASPRO', which advice I took, with remarkable results. After taking six tablets my Neuralgia disappeared. I continued taking two after every meal, and can now thankfully say that I am free from any pain, either Rheumatic or Neuralgic. You will, therefore, quite understand the pleasure I derive in recommending such a wonderfully simple medicine to other sufferers.
Yours faithfully,
(Sgd.) FRANK AUSTIN

THE PUBLIC AND THE BUDGET

Faced with what is well described as a marking-time Budget, the probabilities are that, on the second reading of the Appropriation Bill next week, the Unofficial members of Council will not be found unduly critical of the Government proposals. Regrets will possibly be expressed that a bolder policy is not being followed, but, generally speaking, a consciousness of the uncertainties of the future will probably temper any criticisms offered. Apart from the somewhat abnormal conditions which have prevailed during the recent past, it is, however, regrettable that the Budget debates for longer than we care to remember have not been characterised by the strong line which Unofficials were wont to take twenty or thirty years ago. The fact that the Government always has the whip hand of the opposition, by virtue of the Official Majority, may be a factor in the situation, but, even so, the public does miss the stirring debates of other days, when our Unofficials were not averse from pressing their viewpoint to the extent of registering their votes against the Government. Compared with the procedure in the House of Commons, where members do not hesitate to move the rejection of proposals with which they disagree, Budget debates in Hongkong normally are not only colourless and farcical, but they are marked by a timidity on the part of the Unofficials which usually leaves the Government with no difficulty whatever in answering the arguments put forward. The fault cannot be laid wholly at the door of our Unofficials; the public, because it is seldom vocal, must bear its share of the blame. Failure of ratepayers to express themselves on the Budget proposals when they are made known naturally leaves our Unofficials in some doubt as to the public attitude, with the result that it is largely left to the newspapers to endeavour to reflect or interpret the community's reactions. In any case, the Unofficial members of Council are, under the existing system of government, responsible to no-one. If the elective method were in force, there might possibly be greater inducement for Unofficials to sound their constituents on the Budget proposals. The need for a real link between Unofficials and the public is obvious. We would suggest as one method the convening of a yearly ratepayers' meeting, some time between the introduction of the Budget and its second reading, which our Unofficials might attend for the purpose of ascertaining the public's opinion.

the Government and the ratepayers, the Unofficial members might even themselves convene such a meeting. Until some such innovation is introduced, the public representatives must of necessity be groping in the dark. Pending such a move, or, what would be even better, some sensible measure of constitutional reform, the most that ratepayers can do is to utilise the columns of the Press for the purpose of airing their opinions. Failure to make use of this medium will carry the implication that the public does not really care. Civic spirit in the Colony is not strong, but this is no doubt in part due to a general feeling of the hopelessness of fighting against the present system of government. Once some encouragement is offered the public to take a real and lively interest in the

NOTES OF THE DAY

TURN OF THE TIDE?

Remembering the saying that figures can be made to prove almost anything, and being fully conscious of the folly of premature optimism, we can, none the less, find some cause for satisfaction in the latest statistics concerning Hongkong trade. It is true that, compared with last year, the first eight months of 1934 show substantial decreases in the volume both of imports and exports, but when we turn to the figures for last month we find that we have to go back to November before encountering a higher figure in respect of imports, whilst as far as exports are concerned, only one month in the current year disclosed a better return. What is more, as against July, the August imports show a rise of over ten million dollars, whilst exports are up by more than four millions. There may be seasonal explanations of the increases, but so far as imports are concerned, at any rate, the August figure is only very slightly below that of the same month last year. Is it the turning of the tide?

LABOUR'S LOYALTY

It must give British people gratification to reflect upon the common-sense attitude of the Labour movement in the British Isles, and for that matter, throughout the Empire. Unlike the stormy American unions, British Labourites are for industrial peace at almost any price these days. British workers lost 1,070,000 working days in 1933, owing to strikes of one sort or another, as against 6,490,000 in 1932 and 8,290,000 in 1929. The policy of studied peacefulness has continued thus far in 1934, and only about half last year's total in lost working days has been reached. Labour's attitude appears to be based on recognition of two points: one, that with the prevailing unemployment, strikes would be risky in any but the most skilled and highly organised trades; and two, that membership in British trade unions has declined from 6,516,000 in 1920, the peak year, to around 3,400,000 in 1933. It seems to be felt that this declining tendency must be arrested before Labour can go into any of the old-time pitched battles with any hope of success. No-one should be deceived, however, into thinking the British trade unions have lost their strength. They are still extraordinarily powerful. They are the driving force of that larger Labour Movement (which embraces a great section of the salaried middle class) which has made Great Britain the leading social-democratic country of the world.

STARTLING DECLINE

The decline of the Unions' membership can probably be traced directly to the 1926 General Strike. At that time, only 1,580,000 workers actually struck, out of a total of 4,100,000 on the union rolls. There is no doubt that, following the collapse of the strike, the position of the railway workers and miners was seriously worsened. Some contend that the strikes of 1920 and 1921 are the root of the decline evil. In 1920, when the union membership was at its peak, 6,516,436 names in all, there was a record number of strikes, 1,607, compared with 357 last year. These strikes were aimed at the maintenance of war-time standards of living, and in 1921 they cost 85,872,000 working days—that that many days' wages for Britain's workers. Where these strikes were lost they were naturally disheartening to the rank and file. Where they were won they had little effect except on industry. They probably prevented it from participating in the post-war boom. Therefore, it is maintained, the subsequent decline of trade union membership was probably a direct result of appreciation of the futility of strikes.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

Sept. 14th.—Up betimes after a very calm night for all the promise of a storm, which did remind me of nothing so much as the beginning of the great electric storm in 1926. Yet it passed far to sea. To-day the first signal is hoisted for a Typhoon and I fear we may have a stormy week-end. Yet so far as storms go we cannot complain, this being but the second time that Number One has gone up this season. And I do trust our good fortune shall continue. Talking in the Clubb over my morning draft I do discuss it with Creed, but I fear he becomes somewhat of a buffhead, and I do not approve his reasoning. Later comes Mrs. Povy, who tells me Mr. A. Grimmit bath won the Lawn Bowls Championship, as well as the Pairs and the Rique competitions, which, as I believe, is without precedent, and I am sad at heart that his ringer did not go to Shanghai where we did get such a beating. News comes that Senor de Valera doth object to Russia's entry into the League, being, as I suppose, afraid that they will steal his thunder. For I doubt if there be much to choose between the condition of the peasantry of Ireland and of Russia. This day later to a preview of an excellent picture and a pretty lady comes to help my judgement. Thereafter to the Snakepit where we send for her Lord who plays at cards, and there talking for some long while. Writing after in my chamber.

15th.—Up very betimes and to my office but as is ever the case I am too thronged with my papers to get away early. However, I am in time to reach the shoppes before they close, it being Mistress Ann's birthday, of which I do wish her many happy returns. The weather being fowle, there was no Krickett played and I fear I did sleep somewhat heavily. This night Mr. Lord of Harpenden, as I must now style him after his new dignity, his Lady, and Mr. Franco did eat their dinner with me at the Gloucester House, and after to the King's Play House to see "Spring-time for Henry." And this I believe to be the first time I ever pay money to see a picture of which I have had a preview, save only in the case of Mr. T. Walls or R. Lynn. But I do perceive a difficulty, for while the upper circle proves full the house is high empty below and I see very few Chinese, the piece appealing more by its witty dialogue than by its spectacular action. Back afterwards to the Snake Pit for a glass of strong waters and so to bed.

16th. (Lord's Day).—About nine of the clock I do partake of my Sunday kipper and rest after. More and very ill news of the Morro Castle and I doubt if the full facts will ever be suffered to come out. But it seems a most disgraceful incident. To the Library where I staid awhile reading the newest sheetes, and later with Mr. Part and his Lady to a bathing shed, set in a little secret bay that is most pleasant, and we alternately do swim and demonstrate the theory of Shing Mun to Master Part, though in the end his demand that the stream should be made to flow uphill doth quite outgo me. After hot tea in a tin flaggon such as I have not drunk these many moons, and slabs of bread and butter with prawn paste. Thereafter home, trusting that I shall not be sorry for it, after a glass or two with friends. This night Ann's mother dines with me, and later I do call in upon Mr. Muley-grubs and his Lady and find them at cards, and do join the game. But, holding nothing better than three doices and losing even upon that, I am sorry for it. And catching a motor wherry the helmsman is an ill-natured devil whom I have no desire to see again, as, despite my clear orders, he takes me to Blake Pier instead of Queen's Pier, and I wake not up early enough to notice it e'er I do disembark.

17th.—After my office is put in order I do get me to the Peako to visit the sick, and I find them mighty well, and in particular Mr. Gilbert, who, I doubt not, will be somewhat at a stand to make the weight when he is fit again to ride, which, I doubt not, will not be before next year. Home and early to bed.

18th.—This day I see in the newest sheetes that the Bookmakers do lay the odds of ten to one upon Bobbleigh for next year's Derby, and I do much hope these poor honest and deserving men do not come to any harm through their over-liberality, the race being scarcely nine months off. I am in some doubt as to whether Russia and Turkey be fully elected to the League, nor do I trouble much myself.

19th.—Busy getting my tickets for the sweepstake upon the Picnic Bay Race, and it has lately been advertised in a way that is pretty to observe. And, though by so saying I may become obnoxious to reproach, I dare wager they will sell no more than eighty-thousand tickets or at most eighty-five. Yet it is good news that two thousand and four hundred dollars are being invested therein every day, and I am minded to notify the Economic Commission as a proof of the depression. For when so much money is available, and there are so many cars owned that the whole city is scarce sufficient to provide parking room, the time has indeed come to dock the wages of the King's servants. I see in the newest-sheetes that an M.C.C. team goes to West Indies, and with it Hammond, Hendren, Ames and Leyland. And how these men shall give of their best when they get no rest at all I know not. To the Krickett Clubb where much talk of our coming match, and later, reading a book, and so to bed.

20th.—Up betimes, but Lord! how I do find I hate each new day and the prospect of its sameness. And, even though there be a touch of cooler weather in the air, I do rise unrefreshed and do detest the prospect of my office which, had it been upon a Monday or after a festival, I could in some way understand. But last night I did dine early and was abed by ten of the clock. And so I do take it to be the general feeling at the end of the summer, and do become more cheerful, tho' at first at my office I am somewhat opinionastre. Home and reading of my mail, and so very early to bed.

Those SMART NEW "UTILITY" COSTUMES

SKETCHED BELOW is a brown and white checked swagger coat in lightweight woolen, worn over a brown crepe dress with white trimming. It's a flattering early fall outfit.

Saks N.Y.

THE WHITE woolen swagger coat shown below is guaranteed to freshen up any wardrobe. It's good for right now and will come in handy if you take a winter cruise to some southern resort.

THIS KNITTED spectator sports dress (white pattern on a navy blue background) has a high neckline, short sleeves and an interesting bodice.

A BLACK ALPACA suit, consisting of plain skirt and fitted jacket with wide collar, is the perfect outfit for this time of year.

NATURAL-COLORED linen shantung is used to make this attractive one-piece dress with bright blue collar, waist, belt and godets.

Now is the time to look for frocks or coats that combine summer's softness and the smartness of fall

UTILITY costumes are the best sellers in smart shops this month. It's too late in the season for a woman to want to stock up with several summer dresses and at the same time it's a bit too early to go in for a variety of autumn things. What she probably needs to freshen up her summer wardrobe is a double-purpose dress, or perhaps a coat that can be worn on early autumn days, too.

Realizing women's specific clothes needs at this in-between season, costume designers have brought forth charming outfits that can be worn on several occasions and in any number of ways. They have all the softness of summer clothes with a touch of autumn dark smartness thrown in for good measure.

For instance, look at alpaca suits. Now there's a fabric that is cool enough for the hot days and yet it has a tailored look about it that makes it just right.

Besides, by getting a suit, you have another chance to wear those blouses that you bought to go with your suit last Easter. And the sweaters that you took along on vacation will undoubtedly be flattering under the alpaca jacket. Black, brown and navy blue are the alpaca colours which are most suitable for this time of year.

If you need some sort of sports dress that can be worn on the golf course and for spectator sports wear as well, look at the linen shantung dresses of the shirtwaist types.

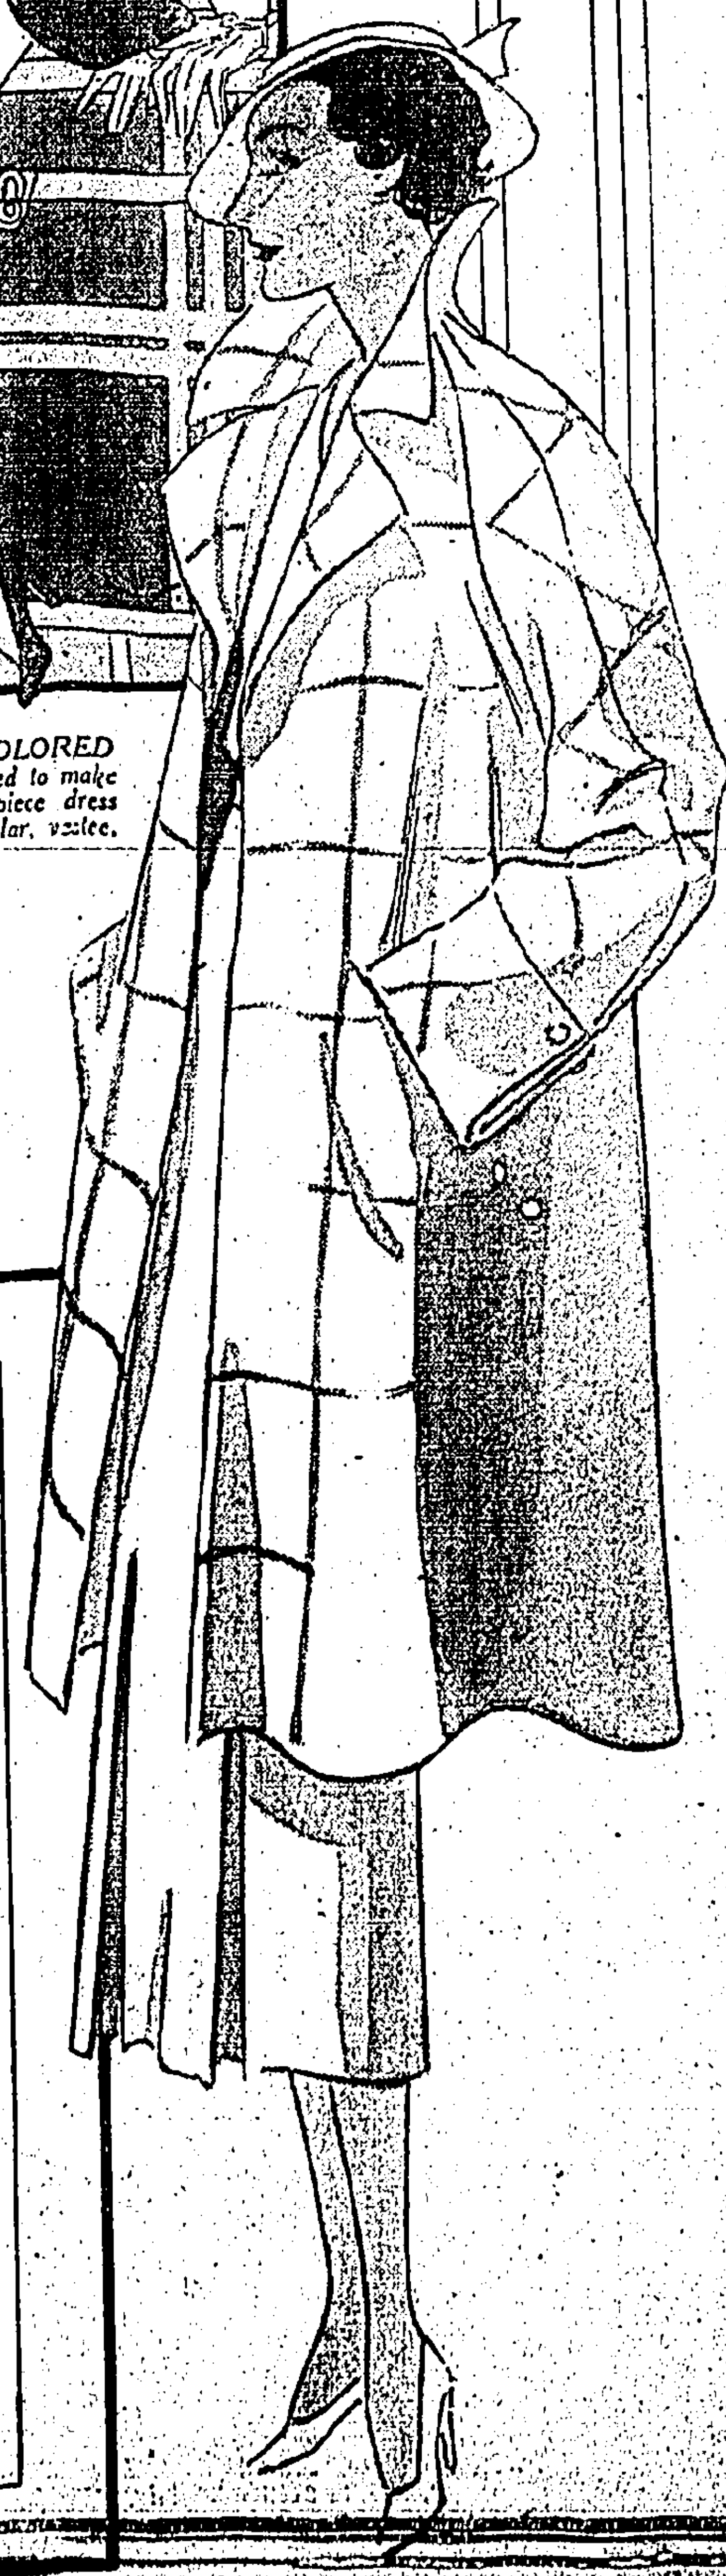

In natural coloured tones with vivid trimming, these are charming. One smart linen shantung dress has a bright blue collar and cuffs and matching godets in the skirt.

If you need a coat to freshen up your wardrobe and also to brighten your outlook on life, try on some of the swagger numbers that are hung from the shoulders, fitting snugly in not one single spot. The newer ones don't even button at the neckline. You slide into them and then hope that they'll stay close around the neck. Usually they do.

There are white swaggers, of course, and several types in checks and small plaid designs that will look stunning over fall dresses as well as over summer frocks.

If you don't fancy a light-weight woolen coat, investigate the gabardine swaggers. These come in white and the pastel tones, can be worn over anything from a sports dress to an evening gown and have a careful, casual air about them that is flattering to women of all ages.

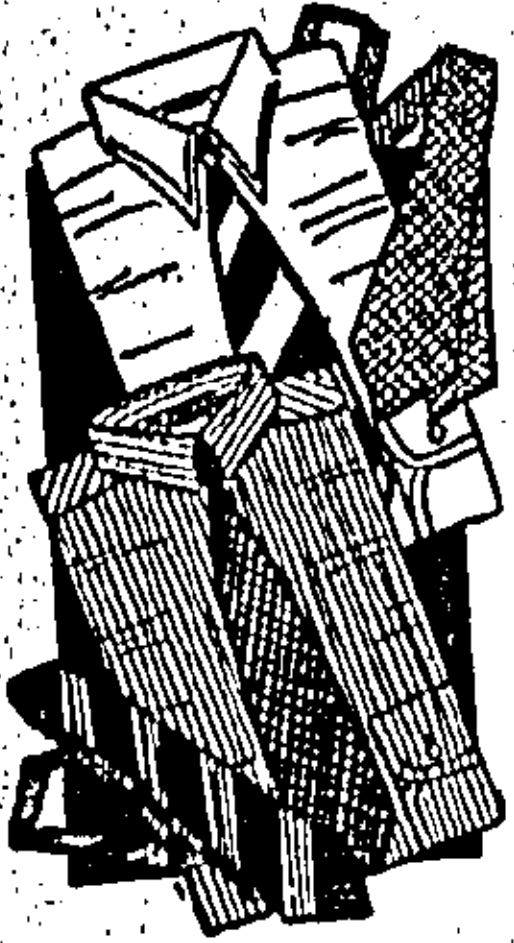

The heavy linens also make attractive, practical wraps for this time of year. They come in black and white checks or in dark solid colours such as navy, brown and beet root. The linen tailors perfectly and at first glance you're sure to think these linen coats are wool. Simply-cut, short coats of corduroy are as attractive over a dance frock as a sport costume.

Britain's Royal Entertainer

By MILTON BRONNER.

Her close friendships with Prime Ministers and the royal family itself, make Lady Londonderry, wife of England's Air Secretary, one of Britain's most powerful women socially and politically.

If some few years ago anybody had predicted that Ramsay MacDonald and the Londonderry family would become intimate friends, that the Marquess of Londonderry would become one of his stoutest supporters, and that the Marchioness would have him at her famous parties as their favourite guest, English people would have doubted the sanity of the speaker.

For all things seemed against any such conjuncture of affairs. MacDonald was the son of a poor peasant Scots farmer. The Londonderrys were born to the purple of the truest British and Irish aristocracy. MacDonald supported himself by his pen. The Londonderrys were affluent in all the world's best goods. "Ramsay Mac" was a rampant Socialist. The Londonderrys were 110 per cent Tories.

MacDonald attacked conditions in the Seaham coal mining district, where the Londonderrys owned great collieries. The Londonderrys hit back, practically saying Ramsay was talking through his hat. MacDonald came to power as a Socialist Premier. To the Londonderrys this seemed the end of the world as they knew it.

IN MACDONALD CABINET.

Then came the famous summer of 1931 when MacDonald's second Socialist government resigned. He at once formed a National emergency government, composed of Tories, Liberals and such Socialists as followed him. Given a huge mandate by the electorate, he remade his cabinet and lo, Lord Londonderry was Secretary of State for Air. The Premier and his Air Minister became intimate friends. An equally close friendship became established between him and the Marchioness. And MacDonald sits in the House of Commons as the member for that very coal district which is so intimately tied to the Londonderry fortunes.

Lady Londonderry has always been a power socially. To-day she is one of the most powerful women in Great Britain. If anybody holds a salon in the ancient term of the word, it is she. Her parties, balls and receptions are the most brilliant, the most generous and the most sought after of any in the social season. When she, with the active support of her talented husband, throws a great reception on the eve of the meeting of Parliament for the honour of meeting the Prime Minister, the old time social glories of England seem fully revived. She has the ability, the resources, the house and the plans to entertain in the grand manner.

The gods showered many gifts on her. She has good looks, easy social poise, brains, both speaking and writing ability. She might easily have remained just a crust-ted Tory noblewoman. But, as a matter of fact, her interest in people, in the arts, in literature, make any of her parties a gathering of brains and ability as well as of social stars.

VARIED INTERESTS.

She and her husband did not have to conquer a great social position. They were born to it. A great-granddaughter of the third Duchess of Sutherland, she is the daughter of the late Viscount Chaplin, one of the pillars of the Tory party, and a famous host. Her husband's family is one which successive monarchs have delighted to honour. They were Barons in 1789, Viscounts in 1795, Earls of Londonderry in 1796.

The present Marquess, who succeeded to the title in 1916, sat in the House of Commons until he became a peer. At present Secretary of Air, despite his 55 years, he has qualified as a full-fledged pilot. His two daughters followed suit and last year Lady Londonderry also took flying lessons.

ACTIVE DURING WAR.

Apparently there is nothing this talented woman cannot do. During the war, her activities were manifold. Living in the attic, she turned over the balance of her husband's famous home, Londonderry House in Park Lane, to make of it a hospital for wounded officers. She herself ran it.

After the war, she interested herself in politics. In the fall campaign of 1931, Lady Londonderry took the stump to support the government candidate for the M. P. from Newcastle.

In the winter of 1928 she appeared in a new and unsuspected role—that of author. Her book was "The Magic Inkpot." It was based upon old Irish legends and brought her own children into it. It was dedicated to "Captain Stewdonderry's younger daughter, Lady Mary, had given herself.

FAMED AS HOSTESS.

But London will always remember her best as the famous and powerful social hostess. The framework is gorgeous: the great winding staircase that leads up to the reception rooms; the brilliant lights, the lavish display of cut flowers, the paintings of Londonderry ancestors by the classic Hoppner and Lawrence. Then Lady Londonderry herself, wearing the famous Londonderry diamonds, greeting each guest by name and knowing his or her particular interests. Standing with her husband, she has thus in times past held receptions for a long line of famous Prime Ministers—Lloyd George, Bonar Law, Stanley Baldwin and now MacDonald.

Her close friendships with Prime Ministers, with powerful House of Commons men, with all kinds of men and women of ability and, perhaps, most of all, with the royal family itself, make her a power for any cause she espouses.

A DEAD LETTER.

LEAGUE COVENANT
EAST OF SUEZ.CHINA CONTRIBUTION
SHOULD BE HALVED.

MR. QUO'S SPEECH.

Geneva, Sept. 21.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi, Chinese Ambassador to London and concurrently chief Chinese representative at Geneva, addressed the Fourth Commission to-day and demanded that China's contribution to the upkeep of the League be halved.

Mr. Quo said he was unable to conceal the fact that the Assembly's vote on the subject of China's re-election to the League Council had given fresh impulse to the large, growing section of Chinese opinion which wondered whether it was worth China's while to continue paying large contributions to a League which apparently regarded the Covenant east of Suez as a dead letter.

The League, he declared, did not even seem to be concerned with maintaining the agreement that Asia should be adequately represented on the Council.

Mr. Quo Tai-chi added that this was not the Government's opinion. The Government, he said, adhered fully to its previous statement to the Assembly. However, he warned the Commission that the Chinese Government could not, any longer, acquiesce in a situation in which China, through no fault of her own, was officially proclaimed by the League as a defaulter.

"As a result of this proclamation," said Mr. Quo Tai-chi, "We have been held up to obloquy in the world Press. Our national reputation is suffering. This matter must be cleared up by the Assembly."

"Since 1931, China has paid to the League 5,260,000 gold francs, acquitting herself of her obligations under the agreement on consolidated arrears, signed in 1930."

The time had now come, said Mr. Quo, when the arrangement for halving the assessment as a temporary measure must be made permanent. China was ready to continue payment of 1,250,000 gold francs annually, but she could not labour longer under the stigma of default.—Reuter.

BRITISH THRIFT

SMALL INVESTORS'
SAVINGS

London, Sept. 21.

Striking figures of the amount of savings by small investors were disclosed at Cambridge by Sir Arthur Marshall, Vice-Chairman of the National Savings Committee.

He said that through the Post Office Savings Bank, Trustee Savings Bank and National Savings Certificates, the three agencies that now constituted the national savings movement, small depositors' aggregate investments amounted to £1,234,000,000.

Through other thrift organisations in Britain, such as building societies, industrial and provident societies, Trade Unions, etc., small investors held an aggregate total of £1,309,000,000 making a grand total of £2,543,000,000.—British Wireless.

The subscription list for the issue of £2,000,000 worth of debentures in denominations of £5,000, £1,000 and £500, issued by the Hongkong Land Investment and Agency Company, Limited, was over-subscribed yesterday by nearly £3,000,000.

The list was opened at 10 a.m. and within an hour had been over-subscribed. By noon the amount had totalled over £4,700,000 and when the list closed at 3 p.m. nearly £5,000,000 had been subscribed. The actual sum is not yet available.

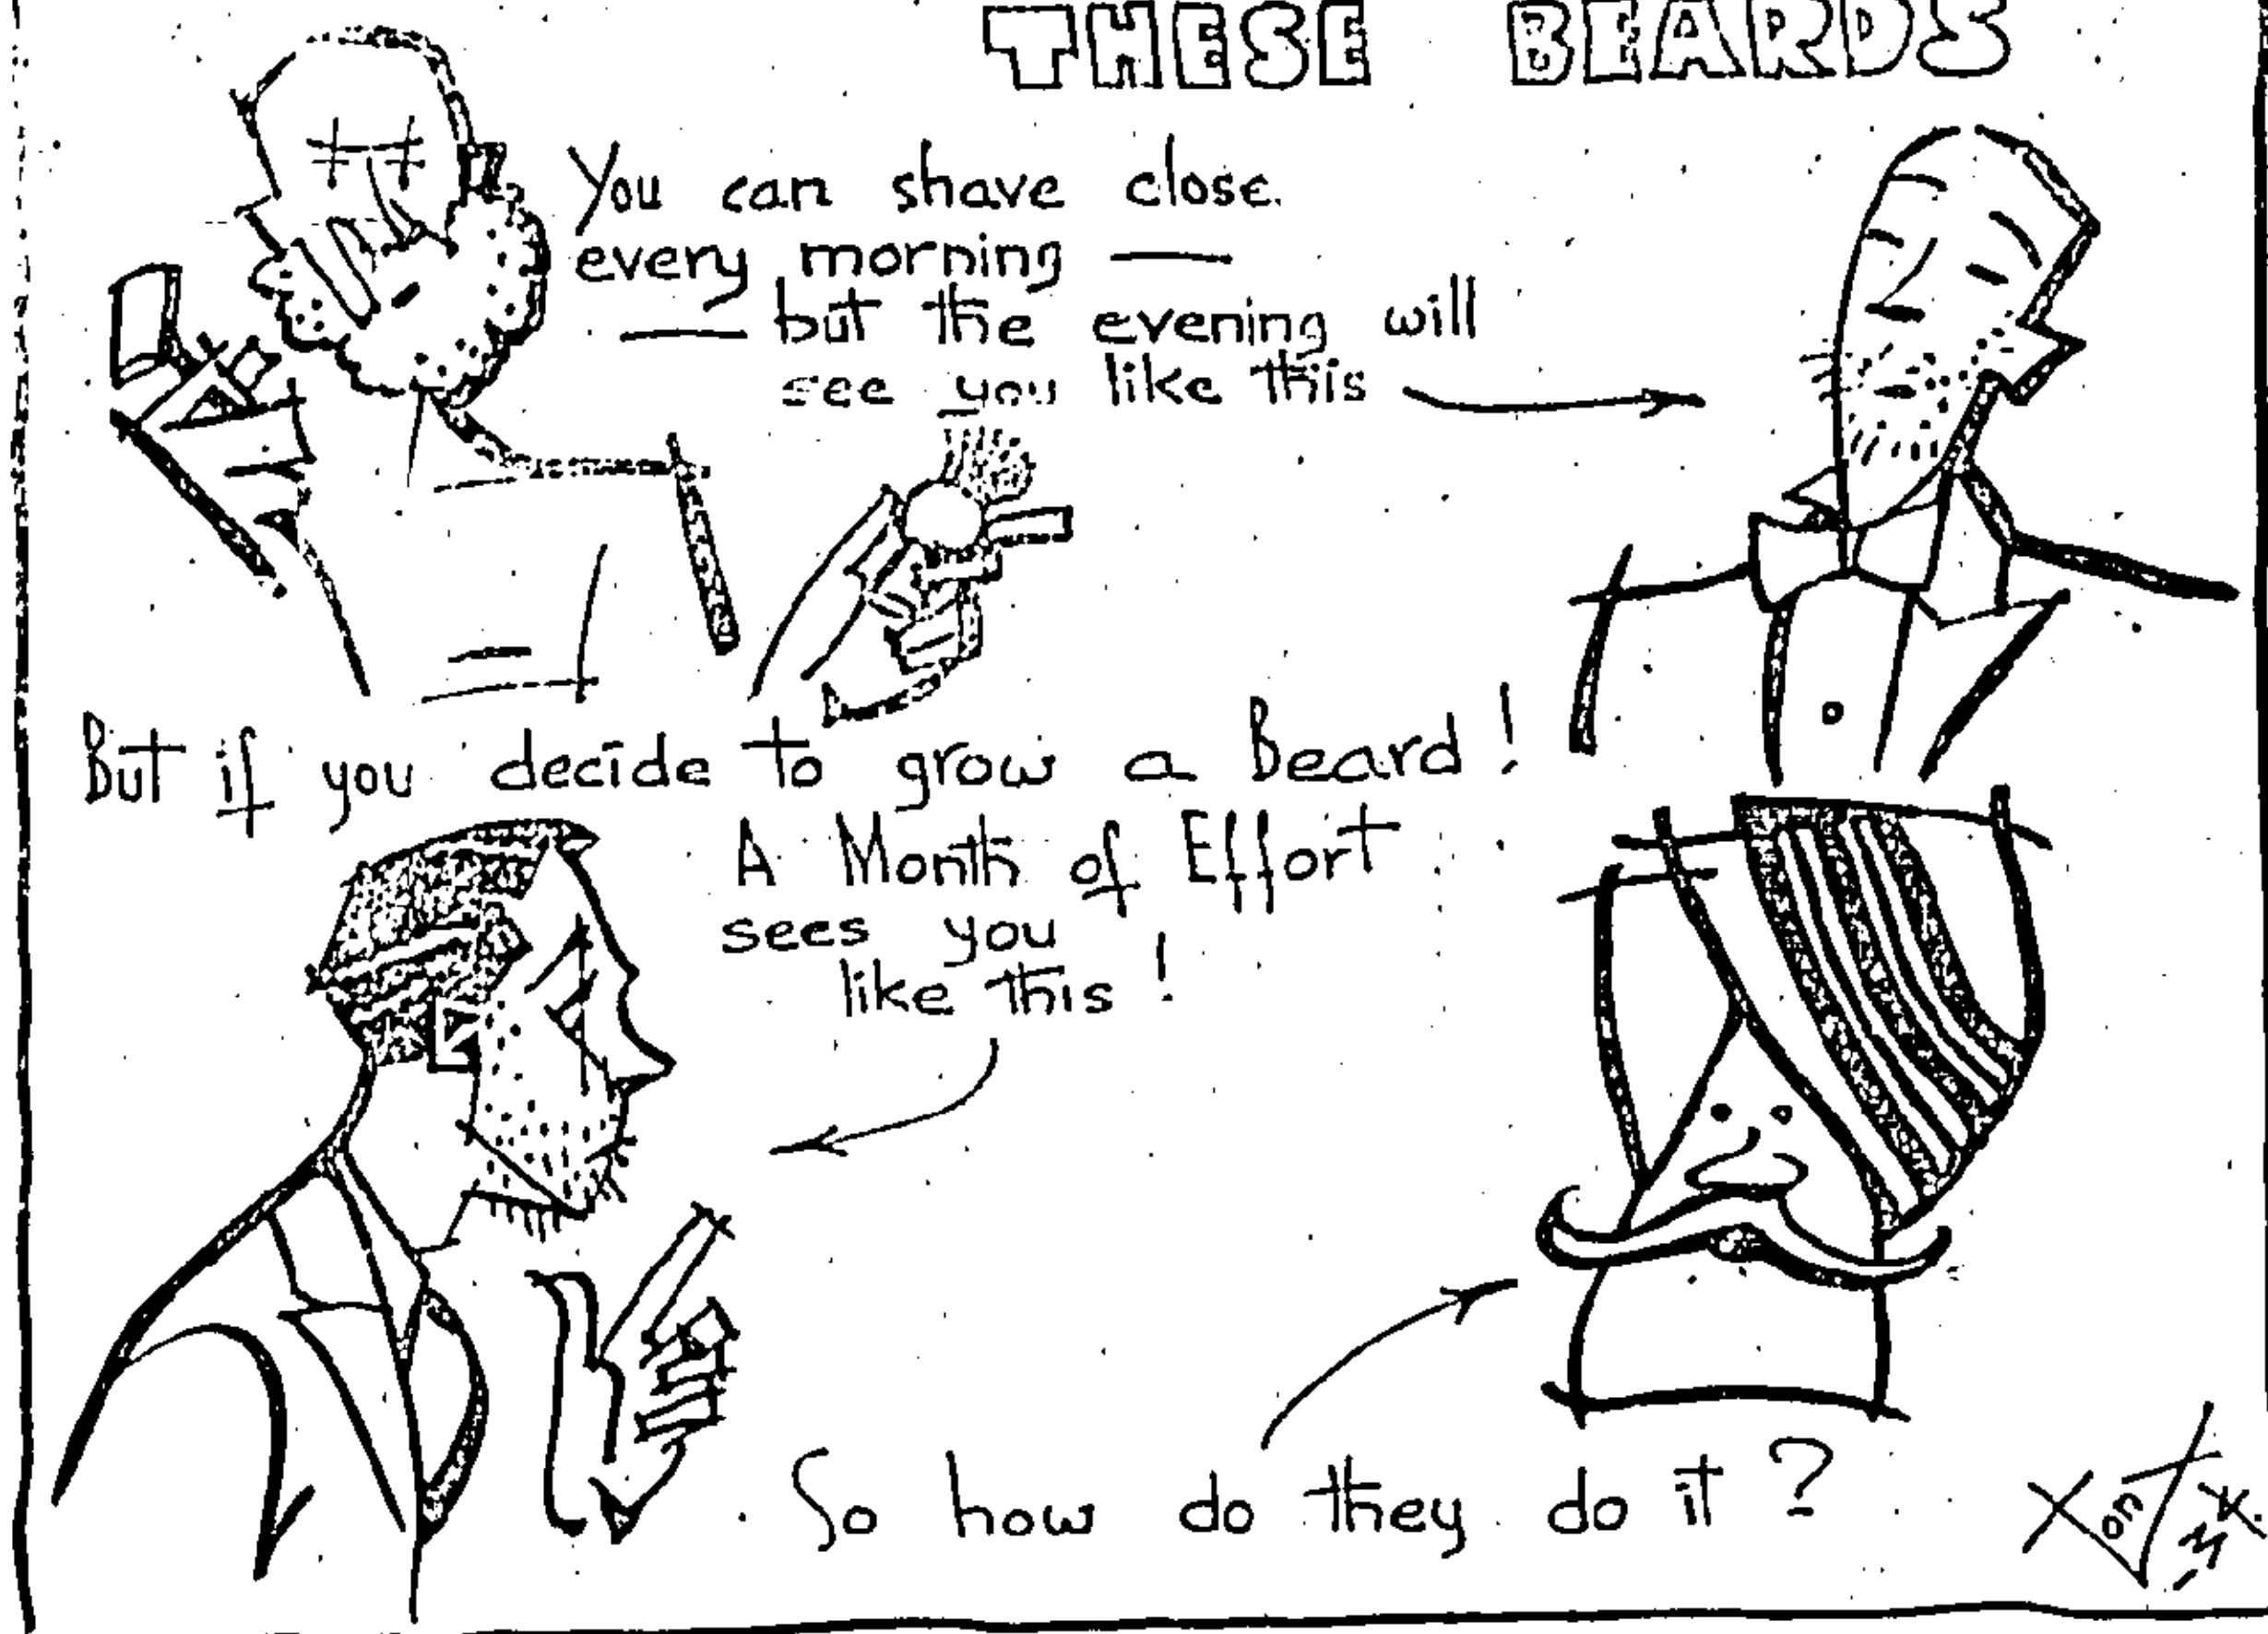

For Development.

The proceeds of this issue (together with the proceeds of any further issue or re-issue of this series) will be employed generally in carrying out the plans of development already in progress on the Company's properties and for further working capital as may become necessary in connection with the business of the Company.

In particular such proceeds will be employed in building a block of flats at Bowen Road and in the extension of the Bowen Road.

TREAT FOR BROWNIES.

FIFTY GIRL GUIDES ROAM
OVER BLUE FUNNEL LINER

Captain Hatfield entertained fifty happy Brownies to tea on board the Blue Funnel liner Aeneas this week. The children were given a wonderful time by their kind host and the staff of the ship.

A splendid tea was served with a special souvenir menu card and picture postcards for each child. Games followed and the children enjoyed to the full romping round the decks. They were also greatly interested in seeing the ship and it was a novel experience for a number of them.

The Packs represented were 1st Kowloon Pack (Miss D. V. King), 2nd Kowloon Pack (Mrs. R. W. Ritchie and Mrs. Kemp), 3rd Kowloon Pack (Miss P. Moore), 4th Kowloon Pack (Miss A. Egan). Among others present were Lady Southern (Colonial Commissioner), Mrs. G. A. C. Herkules (Divisional Commissioner), Mrs. Longworth, Mrs. W. A. Cornell, Mrs. and Miss Butler.

At the end of the party three hearty cheers and a "God Save the King" were given for Captain Hatfield, who offered two prizes for the best essays written by the children, describing their visit to the ship.

RESCUED FROM TERRORISTSMODERN SCARLET PIMPERNEL

A dramatic story of the exploits of a former British M.P., who outwitted the Nazi terrorists on two separate occasions, is revealed to-day.

His adventures, which probably saved the lives of four people, including three children, read like a romance of a modern Scarlet Pimpernel.

On July 1 last, the day after the Roblin plot executions, and when the Nazi terror was at its height, the Englishman arrived in Berlin to assist a former German Cabinet Minister and a prominent anti-Nazi to leave Germany. The man was in hiding from the secret police. It was known that his death was a matter of hours.

But four hours after his arrival the Englishman had succeeded in smuggling the ex-Minister from under the very noses of the secret police, and both men were speeding across the Dutch frontier.

The police, deprived of their victim, threatened the other members of the family. Word was received in London that the three children of the ex-Minister would be taken as hostages to force their father's return to Germany.

On July 27, therefore, the Englishman made his second trip to Berlin. The children, a girl of seven and two boys of nine and four, were taken to a house in the country.

There for three hours they were taught to say the English word "Daddy" and to recognise their would-be rescuer as their father.

When the Englishman was satisfied that they could carry their part through he brought them back to Berlin. While he was making the final arrangements the grandmother took them out to a flying field for additional coaching.

An hour later the man and the three children set off by plane for Croydon. But their troubles were not over. A strong wind was blowing. The plane had to return to the aerodrome.

Three times the same thing happened. At any moment a little slip of the tongue might have revealed to one of the Luft Hansa officials that the children were being smuggled out of the country. But they played their parts perfectly.

The crossing was so delayed that the plane was four and a half hours late reaching Croydon, and did not land until 11.30 p.m. As the three tired children stepped out of the plane their father, who had been keeping a twelve hours' vigil on the flying field, wept for joy.

BADMINTON AT LAST ESTABLISHED IN HONGKONG

LEAGUE FORMED YESTERDAY

CLUBS UNANIMOUSLY IN FAVOUR

GAME TO BE ORGANISED ON PROGRESSIVE LINES

(By "Veritas").

Last winter badminton was popularised in Hongkong; this season it is to be organised. Unanimously, representatives of a dozen clubs in the Colony expressed enthusiastic approval of the proposal to form a league when they met under the chairmanship of the Rev. J. R. Higgs last evening, while support was also promised by the Chinese Recreation Club.

For several years tentative efforts were made in Hongkong to adopt badminton as a winter pastime, but it was not until last year that there were any indications of the game developing. Then, almost without warning, four or five clubs sprang into existence, and made such rapid progress, that inter-club matches of quite a fair standard were being played in the New Year.

HAPPY MEETING.

The meeting was notable for the really keen and sympathetic interest of all representatives. Excellent constructive suggestions were made, revealing that the clubs had not attended the meeting without some forethought concerning the project. This lively and practical demonstration of interest is an extremely happy augury for the success of the league.

Under the energetic guidance of the Rev. J. R. Higgs, the fundamental issues concerning the formation of the league were speedily settled. A strong working executive committee was appointed to go into the details. The committee will, in due course, report on its activities and request confirmation of its decisions by another general meeting.

To general satisfaction the Rev. J. R. Higgs, a keen supporter of the game, was elected first President of the league, and Mr. Denis H. Hazell, who two years ago made several attempts to popularise the game in the Colony, was unanimously voted to the office of Vice-President.

Mr. R. Kirkwood, who is secretary of one of the newer clubs, the Fire Brigade Club, was appointed to the important office of hon. Treasurer, and Mr. S. A. Gray, who sponsored the project was elected hon. Secretary.

STRONG EXECUTIVE.

The executive committee is both representative and well endowed with enthusiastic supporters of the league, and includes Mr. F. H. Kwok, Prime-mover in the formation of the Jockey Club team, Mr. E. da Sousa, one of the leading players in the Colony, Mr. K. H. Wong of St. Andrew's Church Club, Mr. A. E. Collins, a player of vast experience, Mr. C. H. Summers, founder of the Tai Koo team, and Mr. Lee Kuan-yen, who is secretary of one of the leading teams in Hongkong—Eliot Hall.

This committee, endowed with full powers to formulate the regulations governing the league as well as to decide on the question of whether a court is fit for playing league badminton, has a big task, involving important spadework.

The several alternative methods of conducting the league are obvious, and the committee, assisted by the varied suggestion of last evening, need no advice here. Nevertheless it can be mentioned that it was the expressed aim of the meeting to run, if possible, three sections, namely a men's doubles, mixed doubles and ladies' doubles.

Furthermore there will be no restriction in the number of teams any one club desires to enter, and judging by last season, it seems fairly assured that two or three clubs will be entering more than one men's team as well as mixed doubles and ladies teams.

BADMINTON COMES TO STAY.

The question of subscriptions, unfortunately an inevitable feature of all organisations, was fully discussed by the meeting, and it was finally decided that clubs should pay $2.50 for every

Many Victories Scored At Lyons Tourney

Lyons, Sept. 17. Several victories were scored by the American lawn tennis veteran, Bill Tilden, in the course of a professional international tennis tournament now being held in Lyons.

The French professional star, Cochet, was the other winner in semi-finals, defeating the Irish player, Burke, by 6/1, 6/3. Tilden won the semi-final from Ramillon, France, with 6/3, 6/8, 7/5 and won the doubles in team with Burke from Roberts (England) and Carnero (Monaco), 6/2 6/2.

Earlier yesterday, Tilden defeated Roberts in the singles 8/6, 6/1 and Ramillon beat Carnero 8/6, 6/1.

THE FIRST NO-HIT GAME

DODGERS TWICE BLANKED OUT

DEAN BROTHERS IN FORM

New York, Sept. 21. To Paul Dean of St. Louis Cardinals has fallen the distinction of being the pitcher to cause the first "no-hit" game in major league baseball, since 1931.

Dean blanked out Brooklyn Dodgers in the second leg of a double header to-day, the Dodgers failing to record a single hit and being forced into committing an error.

Previously Dizzy Dean had blanked out the Dodgers in the first game, while the Cardinals made merry at the expense of the Brooklyn pitchers, to hit up 13 runs.

New York Giants scored heavily against Boston Braves, and Pittsburgh Pirates walked off with both games of a double header against Cincinnati Reds.

Only one game was scheduled in the American League, and this was postponed on account of rain, the affected teams being Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Browns.

Chinese F. A. Plans For Year

LEAGUE TO CONTINUE DESPITE SHORTAGE OF GROUNDS

Despite lack of playing grounds, the Chinese Football League will be conducted by the China National Amateur Athletic Federation as in the past years.

When the Pioneer Fields, at which there are three full-sized football pitches, were taken over by the Chun San Hospital authorities for the erection of an up-to-date medical institution about two months ago, it was feared that the local Chinese soccer players would encounter a great setback.

At a meeting of the football committee, which consists of Messrs. S. C. Tsien, S. Y. Loch, T. T. Mo and T. H. Ho and Dr. C. C. Yung, it was decided that the Chinese League should be run as usual, limiting the contesting teams to old member teams that possess own grounds, or are able to secure the use of other fields.

To compensate for the loss of those clubs, the meeting decided to hold two Cup Ties, competitions in which any teams may participate. This will be an innovation and a large number of teams are expected to take part in both the Senior and Junior cup ties.

In the past season more than 80 elevenes competed in the league, which was divided into seven sections. These teams were formed by various educational institutions and business and government organizations and athletic clubs, such as the Chinan University, Three Cultures Club, Chinese Post Office, and Wing On and Co.

S. AFRICA WELL UP IN GOLF

Englishmen filled the next three places, C. Donny (Thorpe Hall) being second with 287 (75, 71, 69, 72) W. J. Cox (Addington) third with 291 and Alfred Padgham (Sundridge Park) fourth with 293.

RADIO AND MAMAK TOURNEY

The Champions Withdraw

(By "Bully-Off").

THE Radio, winners of the Mamak Tournament in 1932 and 1933 have withdrawn from the tournament this year following their refusal to give an assurance that they would abide by the rules of the League.

THIS is a result of the Radio-K.I.T.C. controversy which has been a sore point with the Radio and the Mamak Committee since the Radio walked off the field during their game with the Kowloon Indians last season in protest against the umpiring.

At a meeting of the Mamak Committee held at the close of the season it was decided that the Radio were in the wrong and that if they desired to enter the tourney this year they would have to give an assurance that they would abide by the rules of the League and instead of walking off the field in protest would lodge their complaints, if any, with the Mamak Committee. The Radio, however, refused to admit that they were in the wrong and refused to give the required assurance.

THE matter was then brought to the notice of the Hongkong Hockey Association, which decided to uphold the decision of the Mamak Committee. The withdrawal of the Radio from the League is the result.

The popularity of the League is evidenced in the fact that 18 teams have entered this year. They are as follows: H.K. Police (Winners 1933-34) St. Andrew's, C.B.A., R.A.S.C., H.M.S. Whitall, H.M.S. Whitshed, H.M.S. Koppel, Royal Engineers, H.M.S. Suffolk, H.M.S. Cornwall, H.M.S. Parthian, K.I.T.C., H.M.S. Plymouth, H.M.S. Midway, 12th Battery R.A., Royal Signals, United and the University. The Young Men's Sikh Association have withdrawn their entry.

Tokyo, Sept. 17. Six world and another six national records were shattered in the International Athletic and Swimming meets held in Osaka and Tokyo respectively, yesterday.

ENCOURAGING YOUTHFUL TALENT

PORTUGUESE COLONY AIMS FOR MALAYA INTERPORT

MORE ABOUT LOCAL PROSPECTS FOR COMING SEASON

(By "Bully-Off")

MACAO are looking forward with keen interest to their return Interport game with the Colony at Macao this season, and will probably make a trip to Singapore during the Christmas holidays to engage Malaya in a series of matches.

IN a letter sent a couple of days ago Lieut. da Costa informs me that the Club has already started practice and will be fielding two eleven this season. The first team will be composed of the same players who did the Portuguese Colony justice in the 1933-34 Interports with the addition of Pedro Angelo Jr., one of their cleverest players, who, owing to ill-health has been unable to turn out for the past two seasons.

HOCKEY has won a strong hold over the youngsters of the Colony and many new players have joined the Club. They will be included in the second string for whom it is hoped to be able to arrange fixtures with some of the Hongkong junior sides.

I would like to point out here that it would be of great advantage if Hongkong Clubs would only pay more attention to the training of the younger enthusiasts. That has been the secret of Macao's success in the past and is a policy which should be followed. There appears to be in Hongkong too much concern for the present and too little foresight. The older players cannot go on indefinitely and there should always be a nucleus of young blood ready to step into their shoes when they begin to lose some of their old brilliance. I would commend to all Club the importance of taking two or three lads who are keen and giving them that necessary initial instruction which will make them interpreters of the future.

MACAO'S first fixture with a local side will be against the R.A. Officers on October 14.

THE Hongkong and Singapore Brigades R.A. have rosy prospects for the coming season. They will field practically the same side as last year—a team composed mainly of young soldiers who have benefited considerably by their experience during the 1933-34 season. The H.K.S.R.A. have lost none of their players but there will probably be one or two changes in the defence as the season advances. With Lieut. C. G. Garthwaite, and Lieut. N.W. Metcalfe, two Colony Interports, to call upon they will be a force to be reckoned with. Lieut. C. Ravenhill will again captain the side.

THERE will be very little change in St. Andrew's Club XI this year. There are two new players who will take their place in the team, namely the Rev. J. R. Higgs, vicar of St. Andrew's, who was the Durham University left inner, and R. A. Carroll, who played last season on the left wing for the C.B.A. The Club will lose the services of "Dickie" Wong, their goalkeeper, in December when he leaves for Australia. He will be sadly missed, but I understand his brother Freddie will fill the breach. "Sonny" Bliss, who played last year, is concentrating on soccer this winter and will therefore not be available. Ernie Fincher, who injured his ankle sometime ago will be out of the game for the first few weeks of the season.

ST. Andrew's have entered a team in the Mamak Tournay again this year and their team up to Christmas will probably be: R. H. Wong; E.H.

White; F. Brondbridge; E. MacNider; A. E. P. Guest; A. B. Hanson; R.A. Carroll; J. T. Giehrst; N. A. E. Mackay; H. R. Higgs and R. Baldwin.

THEY will play the Y.M.C.A. on Tuesday next and the team which will oppose them will be Shields or F. Fowler; G. Sommer; E. O. Murphy; H. J. D. Lowe; D. McLellan; R.A. Bates; S. Fowler; G. P. Lamert; W. J. Brown; G. H. Fowler and T. J. Price. The game will be played on the Y.M. ground at King's Park, bully-off at 5.15.

IT is hoped to have the H.K. Hockey Association Handbook ready for sale by the end of next week. Club Secretaries should make application to Mr. F. A. Kemo, c/o Government Radio Office. The cost will be $1 per copy.

HOCKEY MATTERS

Suggested Split Of League

At a meeting of the Mamak Hockey Tournament Committee last night, a suggestion was made that the League be divided into two divisions, but Mr. E. W. Hamilton, who presided, suggested that the matter be referred to the Executive Committee for further consideration after asking those present whether they would care to discuss the matter at the moment.

The following were elected to the Executive Committee: Pay-Master Lt. Comdr. P. C. Le Gras and two other Naval representatives to be co-opted; Lieut. Flowerdew (R.A.), Sergeant Fielding and one other Army representative to be co-opted; A. E. P. Guest (St. Andrew's), Sergeant Fennell (Police), and Jahan Dand (K.I.T.C.).

A fixture meeting will be held next Friday.

financial penalties.

The meeting expressed keen approval and appreciation of the generous offer made by Messrs. Spalding, Bros., and Messrs. G. S. Brothers each to present a trophy for competition, and the allocation of these cups will be made in due course. If the atmosphere of yesterday's meeting is to be any guide, it seems that badminton in Hongkong has come to stay. The possible developments are enormous, as reference to the game in Shanghai and Tientsin, and more so in Malaya, will testify.

Once placed on a sound foundation and the badminton league cannot but help be a success, leading up to further innovations such as Colony championships, and possibly one day, Interport contests.

ATHLETIC MEETING AT BERLIN

Home Team Beat Finland

Berlin, Sept. 16. The international athletic meeting between Germany and Finland ended last night at the Berlin Stadium to the victory of the German team, which scored 106½ points. Germany thus gained a lead of 10 points over Finland, which in the European championship at Turin scored the same number of points as Germany. Thirty thousand spectators watched a most interesting contest.

In the 200 metre run Borgmeyer (Germany) won in 22.6 seconds, followed by Hornberger (Germany), Strandvall and Virtanen (both Finland). The shot put was won by Woeike (Germany) at 15.7 metre with Aldroti (Finland) second. The 110 metre hurdle race was won by Welscher (Germany) in 16 seconds, and the 400 metre run by Hamann (Germany) who finished with a big lead ahead of Voigt (Germany) and the Finnish participants.

INTERPORT SHOOT

Practice Meets To Aid Selectors

The firing off of the annual Interport Shoot between Hongkong, Shanghai and Singapore, is to take place at the Taikee Range on November 4.

In order to select a team to represent Hongkong, several practices have been arranged to take place before the Interport. They will be held at the Taikee Range at 2.30 p.m. on September 23, and 30, October 14, 21 and 28.

All competitors having scores of 85 and over on Bisle targets are requested to come to these trials. Transportation and ammunition are to be borne by the competitors themselves.

His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to appoint Dr. W. B. A. Moore, L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S.I., L.M.S. (Hon. Dub.) D.T.M. & H. (Lond.), to act as Director of Medical and Sanitary Services.

CHINA WILL PUNISH THE GUILTY OFFICIALS

Shanghai, Sept. 21. Interviewed regarding the recent allegations that Chinese officials had purchased arms and had received commissions, Mr. Wang Ching-wel, President of the Executive Yuan, declared that if Mr. Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to Washington, discovered evidence to substantiate the allegations the Chinese Government would not hesitate to mete out severe punishment to the officials concerned.—Reuter.

Sweeping Denials.

Washington, Sept. 20. Herr Luther, the German Ambassador, visited the office of the Secretary of State, Mr. Cordell Hull, regarding the evidence given at the Munitions Inquiry.

Herr Luther recalled the evidence of aeroplane manufacturing company officials to the effect that America, in contravention of the Treaty of Versailles, was selling military planes to Germany. He declared the allegations that Germany had purchased such equipment were nonsense.

The determination of the Japanese Government to keep abreast of inventions in the United States, was described by a witness at the inquiry to-day.

The witness declared that the Japanese obtained the patent numbers through commercial houses and arranged to have the patents copied in the Patent Office.—Reuter.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

BOOTS LARDER, it is pretty, is openly enough by SYLVIA, the right girl in Larchmont, fashionable New York suburb.
Sylvia falls to ask Boots to a party at the Yacht Club. Boots accepts a polite invitation from MISS WATERMAN, one of the elderly social lights.

HARDY WHITMORE, one of Sylvia's guests, who had been drinking, puts Boots in an embarrassing situation and she is escorted home by RUSS LUND, swimming instructor. The malicious Sylvia seizes this opportunity to hurt Boots and persuades MRS. FERNELL, of the Woman's Club to ask Boots to resign from the Juniors.

Hardy calls to apologize and Boots accepts his invitation for a date that evening. In a spirit of recklessness she asks him to take her to "The Barn," a questionable dance resort.

Young MRS. GEORGE, a neighbour asks
Boots to luncheon.

CHAPTER XI

Boots traced the pattern of the blue damask cloth with her finger. "So that's the way it happened," she said, looking straight into her companion's eyes. "And I'm elected... I'm the goat. You see that." There was an imperceptible sob in her voice although her eyes, bright and dry, belied it.

"My dear," the other woman smiled at her encouragingly. "You're taking all of this too seriously. Believe me, it isn't important. Oh, I know," she went on swiftly at Boots's gesture of dissent, "I know it seems so to you. At the moment it swallows up—doesn't it?—everything else in the world. You can't read the morning papers, can't be interested in floods or plagues or world shaking discoveries because Mrs. Alice Do-funny Fennell, or whatever her name is, has decided you misbehaved and don't rate a ticket to the Christmas Assembly, or whatever the darned thing is."

Boots laughed hysterically. "That's exactly it," she said.

"Do you like this boy—Hardy?"
Frances George wanted to know.

Boots stared out of the window past the cool green of the chintz draperies, past the ferns where even George Frollicked and the shaded palm where Perry George, Junior, slept.

"He's—he's attractive," she said.
"Last week I thought—well, I was crazy enough to think I really was in love with him. You know, I'd seen him in a crowd and he seemed so good-looking and he never knew I was alive. I made a sort of hero of him,
I suppose."

Mrs. George nodded, understanding.
"Well, then I found out since that he's a charming fellow, but he's charming in a way that he wants to use them but he's not terribly amusing. He says the same thing over and over again. I know most girls don't mind that—it's sort of having a line—but it gets on my nerves. Boots confessed innocently.
"I thought he'd be like some one in a play—that he would say the most interesting things and be, well, different. He isn't. He'd just like everybody else. Of course if he dates a girl she's noticed. Everybody thinks she must have something because he has the reputation of being awfully smooth. But even that won't do me much good now that Mrs.
Fennell is down on me."

"You're what—almost 19?" Mrs.
George wanted to know. "Not going to college?"

"Can't," Boots admitted. "Daddy's business."

"Of course. Well, you don't want to hang around the village for ages, waiting for the old ladies to smile at you again," opined Frances George shrewdly. "You want to marry—later, of course. But not necessarily the first blond he-man who gives you a kind word."

"I thought if I could get away," Boots said, sipping her iced tea and relaxing for the first time in days.

"I thought I might really do something. But Mother doesn't seem to want me to. She's very old school.
Mother is. She says a girl ought to stay at home until the right man comes along. What did you say?" as her hostess choked violently over her glass.

"Nothing. Went down the wrong way," muttered Frances George, spitting and mopping her eyes.
What she had said, involuntarily and with horror at Boots' description of the programme which had been laid out for her was, "In this day and age!"

Gwen created a diversion at the moment by falling down and barking one plump knee. By the time coloured Louise had brought the mercurochrome and peace had been established Boots discovered it was three o'clock and time to see her marketing.

"You were grand to ask me and I feel better already," she meant it. The older woman's manner-of-fact acceptance of her situation had helped her to see it more clearly.

"With I could do something, really," Frances George told her sincerely.

"When your mother gets back perhaps we can cook up something for you to do. I could give you a letter to some friends on 'Womanhood,'—the magazine, you know."

"Oh, would you, honestly? I'd never be able to thank you." Boots was almost incoherent.

"Well, we might see what could be done, anyhow," said Frances judiciously.
She had Gwen on her lap now and was tossling the brown curls absently. It was just a shame, she told herself, after Boots had gone, that those terrible men would come to do such a thing to a child like that. Why, that morning Boots had had a wounded look in her eyes. She was like some wild creature stalked from ambush.

"When you grow up, lamb-ple," she muttered into the ear of the small one in her arms, "we're going to manage differently for you."

Boots went back to her tasks in a more cheerful frame of mind. But it was lonely the next few days. The telephone rang only once or twice and then it was the cashier at the market, asking for an order. Johnny went to the mountains and Hardy called to say he would be at the family's Maine camp until August.

"Oh, well," Boots said, hanging up,
"I wouldn't have seen him much anyway. That was just a flash in the pan."

When she went to the club she avoided "the gang" coolly. Pride held her back and she imagined slights where slights were not. Isabel wanted to talk to her one day but she brushed by with such a strained and artificial smile that her friend withdrew, feeling inexplicably hurt. She fell into the way of choosing odd hours to swim, times when only "the kids" with their nurses were on the sand or old ladies, napping with their crocheting, under the awnings.

In this way she came to see rather a lot of Russ. He was always there, big, square-shouldered, smiling. He didn't bother her. He talked a little, fragmentary bits of idle conversation which didn't require an answer, and Boots found him oddly refreshing.

"His mood lifted her," she did not realize that the man was watching her keenly, measuring her moods, adapting his stride to hers.
Thus she fell into the way of accepting him as a friend, telling him little amusing things, watching for his big smile and his hearty laugh.

And it was summer—warm, glorious, impetuous summer when young things grew and flourished under the sun and of nights the white moon shone down on a world embroidered with a tapestry of beauty. The blue stalks of delphinium in the garden were ghostly in the moonlight, the roses had never seemed so luxuriant.

There was scent everywhere—the good smell of earth under swift summer rains, the perfume of moonflowers in the dusk. Boots felt it—the spell of summer was on the land. Every open car, brimming with light frocks and lighter laughter, had a touch of magic.
Every radio played love songs and the summer nights were lonely as one drowned in the porch swing.

Her father had gone to the Hartes for a game of bridge one evening and she was half-sitting, half-lying in a deep chair when she heard a car stop at the hedge, heard hard, masculine steps on the walk. She sat up suddenly.

"Oh, you."

It was Russ, brave in new white flannels and a dark blue coat. He looked big, masculine, dominating.

"Hello. Thought you might be around. Want to go down on the rocks for a while?"

She hesitated. Now was the time, if ever, to snub him to make him realize the difference in their respective positions. But why should she?
She was young, pulsing with life; she was lonely. He had been kind to her.

"All right," she said impulsively.
"Just wait until I powder my nose."

She wondered, as she hastily ran a comb through her gilt curls and fluffed a bit of scented powder on her face, why her heart was beating so fast and furiously. Why, it was only Russ Lund! Surely she couldn't be excited about the prospect of going out with him.

She came to the screen door and something blocked it. His big shadow, looming almost menacingly, shut out the moonlight.

"I'm ready," she said, confused.
He was at her side and, almost before she knew what was happening, his arms were around her, crushing her in a grip at once tender and triumphant; his face was very close to hers.

"Don't. Don't." Her tone was almost pettish.

In an instant he released her.
Panting, not knowing whether to laugh or to cry, she stared at him.

Oh, she had been kissed, inexpressibly enough, before. But this was different. Russ wasn't one of the "crowd." He was a man grown.

Everything about him was different.
She—she almost liked it, but of course he mustn't know that. "I'm sorry," he said, but his tone didn't sound in the least bit regretful. "You're so—so darned cute."

She laughed hysterically.
"Promise to behave or I shan't go down on the rocks with you." The rocks formed a sort of promontory on the shore. All young Larchmont gave their nights there on these warm, moonlit nights. She would be seen with Russ... the tongues would start gabbling... but she told herself she didn't care.

"I promise," lapped in consecrately.
Russ brought a rug from the battered car and spread it for her to sit upon. In her transparent frock, with her hair a bright halo about her small, pointed face, there was something almost unearthly about Boots to-night.

The man settled himself rather awkwardly beside her. All about them, at discrete distances, little groups, couples, were gathered. Somewhere a boy's voice was raised in song. Far out on the water the lights of little boats winked on and off. A bolley sounded eerily far to the north.

"Pretty," Russ said inadequately.
But he was looking at Boots, not at the view.

"Oh, isn't it?" She leaned back, her chin tilted at the stars. Russ said fiercely, "Come along. You look so darned sweet I'm certain to kiss you again if we stop here."

J. Brian, Chief Pilot of Quantas Empire Airways, which hold the contract for the Australia-Singapore Mail Service.

BRITISH STOCKS BOOMING

NEW HIGH RECORDS REGISTERED

London, Sept. 21.

The general undertone on the Stock Exchange to-day was good, and home industrials, notably motors and rayons, showed advances. Gilt-edged prices made further headway, 3½ per cent. War Loan advancing to 106½, Consols Four to 113½, and Funding Four to 116½—all new high records.—British Wireless.

LIQUOR LICENCE CHANGES

Local Law Being Amended

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Liquor Ordinance, 1931.

Clause 5 of the amended Ordinance substitutes for section 18 of the principal Ordinance a new section the provisions of which have been found by experience to be necessary. The law as it stands precludes the transfer of a licence without the consent of the original licensee, and hence the licensee nominee of a firm or company, owning licensed premises could, if dismissed, bring the whole business to a standstill by refusing his consent to any transfer of the licence.

Again, if a licensee leaves the Colony in breach of a condition of his licence the same licensee arises, since the Ordinance makes no provision for forfeiture of a licence except under section 85 on a second or subsequent conviction of the licensee by a magistrate.

NEW POWERS.
The new section by sub-section (1) empowers the Board on good cause shown to direct the transfer of a licence; by sub-section (2) further empowers the Board, on the breach of a term or condition thereof, to order the cancellation of a licence; and by sub-section (3) the right of appeal to the Governor in Council against a decision of the Board under this section is given to (a) an aggrieved applicant for transfer under sub-section (1); (b) a licensee whose licence is directed to be cancelled under sub-section (2); and (c) in either case, to twenty interested householders living near the licensed premises affected.

STERLING WEAK

U.S. DOLLAR ALSO ON DOWN GRADE

London, Sept. 20. The weakness in sterling which set in yesterday, was accentuated to-day by a continental demand for dollars. British control started to support sterling by buying francs when the rate touched 74.75. As a result, the rate later improved to 74.78. The dollar, on the other hand, continued on the down grade uninterruptedly.

Prospects for sterling in the future are not considered. The low interest level here most certainly lead to further withdrawals of francs to Paris for remunerative investment. French loans will be one of attractions for French capital. The seasonal demand for is certain to continue, adverse change in the rate for August constitutes a strain on sterling. Events in the United States which would cause of the present trend are considered likely in the near future.
